

Dividing Sentences into Phrases

For each sentence, underline the phrases and write the question the phrase answers above the phrase. An example has been done to show you how. (Remember, there can be more than one right way to divide a sentence into phrases and figure out the question that's answered.)

Questions: Who what where when how why did what who did what what did what who

Kim says the best way to handle Jim and his gang did what where is to run away from them.

1. My pal Pat has a wish to go on a bus trip.
2. The short boy could still see the fireworks in the sky.
3. The last spark hissed into the scummy pond.
4. Just then I heard the whoop of a siren, and like a miracle this cop car comes from out of nowhere.
5. The two boys were on a street where most of the homes had broken windows.